

I am very much in favor of making a la carte channels an available option if they are fairly priced and not artificially manipulated in price to further the goals of the cable operators. I don't know anyone who watches all or most of the channels they are being forced to pay for. I'd be interested in hearing from the cable operators what they think appropriate charges are for individual channels.